VALLEY FEELS BAD EFFECTS OF STORM

Nearby Towns Suffer
From Saturday Night
Downpour.

WINDSTORM SEVERE

Damage Done by Elements
to Property Throughout
The Neighborhood.

Severe damage was wrought by the heavy storm of Saturday night along the Monongahela valley and throughout Washington and nearby counties. Breaking suddenly in Charleroi at about 10:45 it sent people scurrying for shelter. Locally the worst damage was confined to the breaking of trees, valuable bushes, the washing of gardens and the overflowing of sewers. Cellars were flooded in some parts of town and streets covered with mud and stone in many places.

The Luna theatre in Monessen was damaged to the extent of about $25 by the storm. A number of trees were broken and in many cases blown down entirely at Monessen.

At Monongahela lightning struck the steeple of the First Presbyterian church. The damage is slight. One of the larger stones on the steeple was torn off and in falling did some damage. The principal damage there was from the water and wind. The wind broke trees in all parts of town and many of the streets were completely blocked by fallen trees. The water flooded many cellars and some of the business houses suffered considerably from the water from the hill section.

Reports from Belle Vernon, Fayette City, California and Coal Centre all tell of damages done by the wind, lightning and water.

About 75 boys and girls partook of their first holy communion at St. Jerome's Catholic church Sunday morning. The young people went to the altar in pairs and received communion. The girls were dressed in pure white and wore long veils. They each carried beads and a prayer book and wore a small pin as a reminder of the sacredness of the sacrament.

LIGHTNING SOURCE OF BAD FIRE

Shop of River Coal Company at Black Diamond Destroyed.

FLAMES THREATENING

During the electrical storm Saturday night about midnight the blacksmith shop of the River Coal company located at Black Diamond was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. The shop and machinery loss was valued at about $2,000. For some time it was feared that the tippie and engine house were also doomed, owing to high wind. The fire however was held in check by the use of hose and pumps from boats until the fire department arrived from Monongahela. One house in a row of 20 was fired several times. The miners moved the most of their household effects into the highway and the rain soaked everything.

The tippie and the railroad crossing were on fire when the fire department arrived from Monongahela, but the flames were quickly extinguished. The tippie is new, having been built since the old one was destroyed by fire in February, causing a loss of several thousand dollars to the company and a big loss of time to the miners.

ODD FELLOWS HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICES

That the basic principles of Odd Fellowship is expressed by a pro-fellowship belief in the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man and that the phrase, "In God we trust, the Order." He said that it was not and friendship, love and truth" by the ritual or the government of its expressiveness signifies Odd Fellowship, were in effect the declaration of the addresses by speakers at the memorial services conducted by brotherhood of God and Charleroi lodge, No. 1030, Independent Order of Odd Fellows and their by S. BIG CROWD AT PARK TO HEAR BAND

Nirella's Offerings at Eldora Please Thousands of People.

HAVE GOOD PROGRAM

Joe Nirella's band from Pittsburg, proved a great drawing card at Eldora park Sunday afternoon and evening. The largest Sunday crowd this season and one of the largest Sunday crowds that ever assembled at the park was there for the concerts both afternoon and evening. It is estimated that between 4,000 and 5,000 people visited Eldora during the day. Nirella brought with him a tenor soloist, Joe Rubin of Pittsburg, formerly with the "From New York to Paris" opera company in New York city. Mr. Rubin is a comedian and this coupled with his voice makes a winning combination. Among the numbers that he sang Sunday were: "Dancing Around," "I Am On My Way to Mandalay," "This Is The Life," and "I Love The Ladies." He was forced to give a number of encores. Nirella's band drew a great deal of applause from the large audience. Both popular music and some of the world's best classic music were featured.

LYRIC THEATRE PROGRAM
TODAY IS GOOD ONE

The Lyric theatre today is offering its patrons an exceptionally good program. The fourth story in "The Perils of Pauline," in two parts and together with Harry Spangler, "The Crowning Glory," a sensational drama in two parts are the features of the day, and with "His Comrade's Wife" make up an excellent bill.

Thieves Operate at Office on Business Street and Secure Money

CUT HOLE IN WINDOW

Orifice Large Enough for Man to Crawl Through Leads to Discovery.

Investigations are being made to a somewhat sensational robbery at the Adams Express company's office on Monessen some time Saturday night, when $153 was removed.

The office of the company is located at the corner of Eighth street, Donner avenue in what is known as the old First National bank building. J. E. Mendoor, who is employed by the company was passing there Sunday night between 1 and 2 o'clock on his way home, it is related, when he happened to notice a hole in the glass. It was large enough for a man to crawl through. Immediately he telephoned to J. M. Potter, who in charge of the Monessen office. Potter hastened to the office and telephoned the police.

Search of the office immediately proved the fact that the sum of $153 had been taken. It was stated that had been removed from the safe, that the safe had been closed, locked after its removal, but there another story to the effect that money was extracted from a strong box that had been left hidden under a table.

Detectives representing the company were put on the case from Pittsburg, and are busy working up the case. They are said to have a chance that may mean the arrest of one more within a short time.

PROGRESSIVE AT WAR.

The bitterest political fight of recent times has broken out in the so-called Progressive party, and the so-called Progressive party is all broken up over it. The Pinchot brothers, Amos, who has a wad of money, and Gifford, who has an unsatisfied ambition for office, have had a quarrel with George W. Perkins, the financial backer of the Progressives. The Pinchots say that it is decidedly inconsistent for their party to be preaching social justice and trust-busting when Mr. Perkins, their party leader, continues his connection with the harvester trust and the United States steel combination. The Pinchot brothers declare that "they cannot seem to see their Progressive party making a real fight against privilege and private monopoly with Mr. Perkins of the various trusts in command."

The Pinchots therefore, have declared that Mr. Perkins shall be thrown out of their party. Col.
Roosevelt is of a different mind, however. He declares—with much emphasis that Mr. Perkins "is one of the most useful members of the Progressive party and that if the Pinchots are determined to throw Perkins out of the party that they must also throw him out."

Under such conditions it will be impossible of course for the Pinchots to throw Mr. Perkins out of their party. They must, therefore, go along with what they have declared to be a false pretense policy and party, hoping against hope that they will be able to fool the people into the belief that they are better than their party, while Mr. Perkins will continue to boss the organization and pay the freight.

The awful fact is that the Pinchot brothers do not enjoy the confidence of either Col. Roosevelt or Mr. Perkins. They are planning to have Col.
Roosevelt nominated by the regular Republicans as the candidate for the Presidency in two years hence. Gifford Pinchot, one of the now famous Pinchot brothers, has squatted in Baltimore and wants to go to the United States Senate in this year of grace. The aims and ambitions of the Pinchots and Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Perkins conflict in a radical way.
And what is left of the so-called Progressive party is hopelessly wrecked in the contest now on between them.

AN APOLOGY FOR "CUSSING."

That story from the golf links at Washington in which the President sent a ball whizzing near the head of another player who roundly "cussed" Mr. Wilson and then, discovering his identity, in confusion and chagrin hastily tendered an apology, is suggestive, says the Pittsburg Dispatch. If it had not been the President, but just some plain citizen, would this "gentleman of the green" have been so precipitate in his apology? Would he have offered any at all? Or would he have continued to "cuss?"

It is not a question of respect to the President's position. It is a question of common politeness. Mr. Wilson insists that he was justified by the rules in playing as he did, and golfing experts sustain him. This might have been suspected. The man who is so ready to resort to "cussing" is just the sort likely to be without justification. The disregard for others exhibited in this language springs naturally from an habitual disregard for the rights of others.
And it is just as naturally to be expected that when a man finds he has been impolite to some one of greater position that he should break his neck so to speak, to make an abject apology. Snobbery, servility and selfishness are usually complimentary. The true gentleman scrupulously respects the rights of others, high or low.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Justices express themselves as being displeased with a recent court decision. But justices should not be so important as to intimate that they can comprehend law.

A general is reported to have called
Gen. Villa a liar. The best thing for that general would be a pleasure trip to Europe.

Suffragists are to call at the White House tomorrow, but reversing the English custom, the suffragists will be met and treated politely.

McKeesport is of the opinion that the champion bad boy lives there.
Monessen thinks the same kind of thing. The only remark we have to make is that we believe he recently lived in Charleroi.

Oyster Bay real estate is picking up since the arrival of the colonel.
The cherry crop is said to be a bumper this year. The prices are more than that.

The American idea of recklessness is to watch the European champion reckless man be as reckless as he knows how, then beat him at his own game by double.

Alice May Kick has been granted a license to marry in Kentucky, which proves she didn't.

Not a single big story has broken this June, but a political year is always an off year.

Some men cannot remember their assets, and hardly anybody can remember their liabilities.

Up-to-date weather prediction:
Hot, cooler, hottest.

Though no one can be certain, it would seem that the word "harmony" was not of Democratic origin.

Speaking of baseball as a business, it appears that it is good business only for a reckless man with a million dollars.

The trouble with California is that it can't have a street parade without one end of the line getting out of town.

With the new cigaret law in effect it should not be surprising if insurance companies made effective a new ruling, placing cigaret selling among the list of hazardous occupations.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

At the baseball game Saturday a player "pulled off" a play that won for him at once the appellation of "bonehead" among the bleacherites.
But the worst indictment was yet to come. After the noise had subsided for the instant, a voice of a boy was heard as he shrilly exclaimed:
"You have a head like a tack, with the point broken off."

Rev. Andrew M. Shea, D. D., of McKeesport told a "funny" story at the commencement exercises of Douglas Business college, where he spoke last Friday evening. It concerned a negro lad who was caught in a watermelon patch by the owner.

"Sam," said the owner, "If I ever catch you stealing in this melon patch again, I'll flog you within an inch of your life."

Sam evidently was much impressed, and left the impression that if he was caught there again, he would willingly submit to be flogged.

However a few days afterward the owner discovered Sam fast asleep in the melon patch, while by his side were unmistakable evidences of theft on the part of the youngster.
He was awakened by the irate owner.
"Sam, do you remember what I told you?" he demanded. "Well, now then you had better get down on your knees and do a little bit of praying, considering you are to be flogged within an inch of your life."

Sam was plainly scared. "Pray?"
he inquired. "Yes, pray," exclaimed the owner.

Sam dropped on his knees, rolled his eyes heavenward clasped his hands, and with a sanctified expression, prayed as follows:

"Make us good, dear Lord, and now good Lord, dismiss us with Thy blessing."

DROVE THE CAT TO SUICIDE

Representative Probably Did a Little Thinking After He Had Heard Policeman's Story.

"Alfalfa Bill" Murray, representative from Oklahoma, made a tour of Washington a short time ago with a party of friends. In due time they reached the Washington monument, and the Oklahoma statesman told at length of the beauties of the shaft.

At the close of his peroration, Alfalfa Bill mopped his brow and turned genially to a minion of the law nearby.
"How about it," asked he; "isn't that some little talk on this ancient pile of masonry?"

"You forgot about the cat," replied that official, imperturbably.

"What cat?"

"The brindled cat of 1896"

"Well, what about him?" queried Representative Murray.

"Oh, nothing," replied the guard, evasively.

"See here," said Mr. Murray, sternly, "I demand to know about this cat."

"It ain't much of a story," replied the guard. "Your talki' there reminded me of it. Ysee this here cat lived in the monument. Well, sir, me and another chap that used to be here noticed that cat acting queerly every time a party came along and was told about the beauties of 'this vast pile of masonry,' as you was saying.

"Then one day along came a gentleman with some friends and talked for three-quarters of an hour along this line, when blamed if that there cat didn't run all the way up 500 odd feet of steps and commit suicide by jumping off the top of the monument."—

SURELY COULD ASK NO MORE

Clever Frenchman Had Done What He Promised, According to Testimony of His Fair Clients.

A witty Frenchman, whose rogueries gave him an unsavory notoriety throughout the town in which he lived, at one time claimed to have discovered a specific for the rejuvenes-cence of women, and, by means of sensational advertising, he succeeded in gathering a clientele of 40 or 50 old dames, who were assembled, on a certain day, in a room tricked out with astrological symbols, crucibles, alembics, and all the paraphernalia of charlatanism.

The conjurer presented himself before the ladies, and addressed them in bombast language, ending as follows:

"And now, señoras of my soul, it is needful that the mystic ceremonies before us be opened by the eldest one among you."

Then, addressing her whose appearance seemed to indicate priority, he asked her age. "Thirty-seven years, senor," simpered the bedame, who was, at least, in the seventh decade.
"And you, senora?" "Thirty-six."
And so on, until he had them down to a declared age of twenty years, with a maximum of thirty-seven.

"Well, ladies all, you perceive that without further proceedings the miracle is accomplished," said Obavits.
"For the least gallant of men could not call her aught but young whose years are but thirty-seven—and you see for yourselves that is the age of the oldest among you!"

Iceland's Own Flag.

A much-valued concession to Icelandic national pride has been made by King Christian of Denmark. For some years the Islanders have been agitating to be allowed the use of their own flag—which is blue and white, as distinguished from the Danish colors, red and white, and they have at last gained their wish. Mr.
Hannes Hafstein, the minister for Iceland, visits Denmark several times yearly, in order to get the signatures of the king to the laws passed by the althing. On the last occasion he carried with him a petition for the use of the flag of Iceland, and this was granted by royal resolution, which permits the blue and white flag to be hoisted together with the Danish flag on public buildings on official occasions. It also allows the use of the special flag on the territorial waters of Iceland.

Friendly Warning.

The young Englishwoman had become very fond of American seaside hotels, with their rockers and cool piazas, but in one respect she was critical. The story is told in the Wide World Magazine.

"If only they would clean our boots once in awhile," she cried, "instead of sending us out to have a 'ten-cent' shinie at a 'shoe parlor.' I have left my shoes outside my door every night for a week, and they have not been touched."

Her new acquaintance looked at her a few moments pityingly, and cleared his throat. "I am afraid," he said
"you can hardly count on finding such honesty everywhere."

She Was No Easy Mark.

Martha is seven, and has shown more than ordinary childish aversion to learning lessons, being washed and having curls made smooth and shiny, and less than the average delight in fairy-tales.

One day upon her return from Sunday school she was questioned as to what she had learned from her nice teacher this time. She cried out with flashing eyes and an indignant toss of her pretty head, "Why, mamma, my teacher told me today that story about the Children of Israel walking across the Red sea and not getting their selves wet, and she said that she remembered to tell you about it."

Advertising

COMMONSENSE people all now recognize the value of letting the public know who you are, and what you have to offer in the world in the way of commodity or service.

WHEN we speak of advertising we speak of the most powerful force that acts today in the world of business.

THE American people form by all odds the best educated and most open-minded public in the world. All they want is the truth, and when get that, they act clearly, logically and some times with surprising speed.

THE public wants to know the facts. It wants the facts about a kind of shoe or a brand of flour. It wants to know the kind of stuff that goes into a suit of clothes or a package of crackers.

The One Thing Above All Others The Public Demands is Publicity

IT has learned to be very skeptical about any event that occurs in the dark.

DO not keep your light under a bushel and create the opinion that you are no longer in business. Let the people know what you have to offer to them.

NEED WEDDING DOWRY

EUROPEAN YOUTHS NOT SEEKING PORTIONLESS GIRLS.

Necessity for Certain "Dot" Is An Accompaniment of Marriage Ceremony, and Its Absence Means a Life of Celibacy.

A well known woman artist in Copenhagen evolved a shrewd idea for the foundation of an insurance company for the exclusive benefit of women, writes M. Winifred Jones in the London Express. A reasonable premium was to be paid to insure against the possibility of finding no husband. Ladies who marry before forty lose all the money they have paid, which goes to the benefit of those who reach the age limit unmarried and who receive an income for the rest of their lives.

In France, to which we look as the home of the dowry, we have it on the authority of M. Brieux, "La Femme Seule," that "there are about 2,000,000 single women in France today," and that many of these do not marry, because they have no "dot." The daughter of workmen who are too well educated to marry a workman and the workman does not want to marry them, because the girls are too poor.

At the same time the system of the "dot" obtains in France where the "parents put by a certain sum every week" for a girl's dowry when she grows up. The fate of the dowryless girl in France is much worse, from the matrimonial point of view, than that of her similarly undowered sister in England, where marriages would indeed be few and far between in any class were a dowry an indispensable adjunct to "tying the knot."

In Germany there is the Stifte (charitable institution), described by Mrs. Alfred Sidwick. "There are Stifte from which a woman may absent herself for the greater part of the year, and yet draw an income from its funds and have a room or rooms appointed to her use; there are others where residence is compulsory. Some are open only to descendants of the founders; some will sell vacancies."

"A woman may have to wait year after year for a chance of getting in or she may belong to one that will admit her at a certain age."

Some are just sets of rooms with certain privileges of light and firing attached. But you cannot be much among the Germans without seeing women who have been educated, endowed, helped in distress or supported in old age by one of these organizations.

In Greece it is considered wrong for brothers to marry until their sisters have been wed. Again girls must marry in order of seniority. It would not be right for a girl to be married while she had an elder sister who remained single. The men of a family are thus naturally anxious to see their sisters settled, and as a dowry is indispensable, its provision is often a matter of serious anxiety and the fruit of great self-denial on the part of the brothers if the parents are dead.

"There are cases in which brothers have remained unmarried and devoted all their hard earned savings to the dowries of their sisters. Among the poorer classes emigration is resorted to not infrequently solely with this object, and many a dowry comes to a Greek maiden from across the Atlantic."

"The average young woman living in luxury in her father's house," says a famous novelist, "is between the devil and the deep sea," on account of the English system of—in the case—piling the money on the eldest son.

There is a happy medium, and though it takes a good deal to remove hidebound prejudice and custom, once the Englishman is convinced of the justice of a plea, he is rarely deaf to it, and "money is a greater necessity to the woman than to the man, because any man who is a real man can work, but many a woman brought up in sheltered idleness can't work; that is, can't work to gain an income and independence, and so, sooner or later, without money or without courage, she sinks submerged."

Cause of Malaria.

The discovery that malaria is not due to miasma or to poisonous air of any sort, but is transmitted from one person to another by a mosquito of the Anopheles variety, was made by Maj. Ronald Ross, a surgeon of the British army, formerly in the India service and now connected with the Liverpool School of Tropical Medicine. He had been a careful student of the problem for several years when in a series of experiments in 1898 he succeeded in infecting birds with malaria from the bites of mosquitoes. Later in the same year and in 1899 three Italian physicians, A. Bignami, G. Bastianelli and S. Grassi, applying the methods of Ross, succeeded in infecting human beings. Major Ross and the same physicians had proved, in previous experiments, that men could not be infected with malaria with air or water brought from malarious localities.—Joseph Buckin Bishop in Scribner's Magazine.

What Kills Them.

Mr. Bacon—It is said that American railroads kill an average of 35 persons daily.

Mrs. Bacon—Well, when we consider the foul air in those smoking cars, I should think the average would be higher than that even.

GREAT MEN MERELY HUMAN

We Are All Too Apt to Forget Those Traits Which Link Them With Their Fellows.

In spite of the saying that no man is a hero to his own valet, Napoleon's man servant has given us a revealing account of his master from his own point of view, and now, simultaneously, there appears a life of King Edward by his chauffeur and a book about Cecil Rhodes by one of his secretaries. King Edward was not a history maker in the accepted sense of the words, but a peacemaker, and the story of his life is anecdotal rather than epic. That "even kings are not exempt from engine trouble and tire trouble and the rest of the ills that flesh is heir to" is seen in his chauffeur's description. Here we have Cecil Rhodes as he was in life—in fatigue uniform, as it were. When they told him that the Dutch in Africa were salt of the earth, he remarked: "I'd like to know where I come in!" He was not unkindful of his own merits. "Creative genius, that's what I've got," he would say. "It's a great thing to have."

But he was not of the number of those who do not recognize an infinitely higher power than their own. Let a man be a Mohammedan, let him be a Christian, or what you will; let him call himself what he likes, but he does not believe in a Supreme Being he is no man—he is no better than a dog."

All too soon the impersonal chronicle of the era in which a strong intellect, the era profoundly affected by his indomitable will and resolute purpose, forgets those natural traits which link him with his fellows. We behold him larger than life and his vast shadow glory crowned. It is of peculiar interest to ordinary mortals, when he is restored to a truer perspective in relation to the universe, so that he is seen no longer as a Lemnigod, but as a man.

FIRST DAWN OF CIVILIZATION

Workers of the "Stone Age" Brought Their Products to a High Degree of Perfection.

The earliest period of human industry is called the "Stone Age," because in digging about among the remains of the past archeologists find relics made of stone always lower down than relics made of metal.

The ancient savages were marvelous workers in stone. They knew in each region what stone was best for the purpose. They found out where the material abounded under the best conditions to be worked. They planned, organized for mining and quarrying.

They transported the material for long distances, half-shipped to reduce the weight and made treaties with hostile tribes to secure the right to visit the coveted spot.

The prehistoric man could tell just how each kind of stone ought to be worked and how it would do its work after it was shaped. To such a state of perfection did they arrive that our most skillful flint workers, aided by the finest tools of today, are not able to reproduce some of the perfect specimens to be found in our museums.

"My Son, My Son!"

A gentleman from abroad, staying in one of the Manchester hotels heard imperious knocking at the door of his room early in the morning after his arrival. He opened, and an elderly gentleman, in a state of warm emotion rushed in and embraced him tenderly, with affectionate cries of "My son, my son!"

It was heartily touching, but the supposed son was in honesty compelled to deny the relationship.

The senior argued the point—"You've been eight years in India, and have just come back. You're So-and-So."

The names—Christian and surname—were quite correct, the surname being by no means a common one, but the younger man had not been in India, nor had he a father in England.

The real son was in the hotel, however, and had arrived the night before, like his namesake. Even the registration clerks had not imagined it necessary to anticipate a coincidence when they directed the father to the visitor's room.

Value of Talk.

Talk has the reputation of being the cheapest thing there is. As supply and demand have something if not all to do with values, doubtless the supply of talk is what gives it a bargain counter value.

Things that are cheap lack enduring quality.

If talk were confined to the things done more than to the things said, it would have a greater value.

Some one asked Edison if he experienced much inconvenience on account of his deafness. He replied that he thanked God for it every day, since it protected him from the distracting effect of other people's talk. He could thus live his own life, think his own thoughts, do his own work in his world of silence.

Finger Prints of Babies.

At Spokane the finger prints of all newly-born children are taken upon the certificate of birth. By this means, the identity of a citizen can be traced from the cradle to the grave. If that method were resorted to at founding asylums, when unfortunate mothers leave their babies, there would always remain a means of identification. A recent case has called attention to this class of human

CHARLEROI

IS BEATEN

BY DUNLEVY

Charleroi was given a good drubbing in the Monongahela valley league Saturday afternoon by the Dunlevy bottom notches by the score of 7 to 4. The defeat occurred principally in the fourth inning. It was, as Artemus Ward would say, "2 mitch."

With Pat Swaney of Monessen, pitching and Claybaugh doing the catching the game started off in good shape for Charleroi. C. Crowl was on the mound for Dunlevy and Craft, a tall, lanky, specimen of ambitious miner and ball player was behind the bat. Charleroi tallied the first run of the game in the first. Mathers hit for a double, went third on an error, and bless you, stole home. The way the stealing performance was pulled off was pretty. Kelly after being safe at first on an error eased off the bag to draw a throw to second. Mathers was on third, and the throw was forthcoming. It went to the second baseman and Mathers dashed toward home plate. Kelly got them all tangled up at second, and finally got the first baseman to chasing him. Mathers simply crossed the pan, and that was all.

But that fourth inning—it was a whopper from the Dunlevy point of view. Gray was first up. He struck out, but Catcher Claybaugh neglected to stop the ball as it was coming past, and Gray danced to first. Hall singled. Sutherland was walked. With three on Craft fled out. Eucroft tried to bunt, and failed on three attempts. Then Jack Barrass was given a free pass, forcing Hall across the bag. Hall came in a moment later when Claybaugh let the pill get between his legs. Dooley hit out a screaming two bagger and the scores were made.

Charleroi scored two in the fifth on two singles and a double and one in the ninth on a base on balls and an error. Dunlevy acquired two runs in the sixth on a double a triple and an error and negotiated a score in the ninth on two singles and a life. The score

MADE THE WORLD BRIGHTER PRIVATE CLUB TO HOLD DANCES

Music 'Lovers Everywhere Acknowledge the Debt They Owe Felix Mendelssohn.

What musician does not love the name of Felix Mendelssohn? Those fortunate enough to hear symphonies and oratorios have revelled in the beauties of his greater works such as The Scotch Symphony, "A Calm Sea and Prosperous Voyage," the Flugal's Cave, and other overtures, St. Paul and the Ephesus, which is so dramatic, it has lately been given with stage settings. The music to Midsummer Night's Dream makes Shakespeare's fairy comedy even more enjoyable than before. We realize more fully the lightsome grace of tiny elves, the merry jests of Puck, and above all, the happy union of Oberon and Titania. Their Wedding March voices the note of joy at how many a nuptial gathering, from those held in stately cathedrals with crowned heads attending, to those taking place in some remote village chapel where simple villagers form the bridal procession. Many a woman's chafed spirit finds relief in playing those gems for the piano called Songs Without Words. Mendelssohn's father, having embraced Christianity, desired Felix to add his mother's name Bartholdy to his own decidedly Jewish appellation. The full signature, Felix Mendelssohn Bartholdy appears after some compositions, but Mendelssohn, the Musician, belongs neither to Judaism nor to Christianity, but to the whole happy world of music lovers.

Though the popular dancing instructor, James McLaughlin, has relinquished his plan of Tuesday night dances at Eldora park Tuesday night dances will not be discontinued. A club of young men from Charleroi and Monessen has been formed and have secured the park dancing privileges for every Tuesday evening during the summer, when they will entertain.

The members of the club are Frank Oates, J. E. Riggs, Thomas Daley, Gus Hirsch and T. H. Tomlinson. They propose to make the dances interesting social events.

The new organization will be known as the Sylvan club. The club will pursue a policy of having up-to-date dances, but objectional dances will be strictly prohibited.

BIG OFFERING AT METHODIST SERVICES

When services were conducted at the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday to commemorate the seventh anniversary of the dedication of the church a free-will offering amounting approximately to $600 was received. Morning and evening services were held, and sermons were preached by Rev. J. T. Pender, D. D., of Wilkesburg. The morning offering amounted to $564.11, this being the heaviest of the day. An interesting program was rendered by the choir, and in the morning Miss Mary Glunt was the soloist and in the evening Earl Nicholson was the soloist. At the morning service an impressive sight was the marching to the altar of the people of the congregation to contribute toward paying off the church debt.

SHRINE TO BRING BUFFALO

Ancient Indian Ceremonial in Times of Drought and Famine Now in Philadelphia.

No longer fulfilling its ancient purpose of charm to provide large buffalo herds for the Indian of the plains, there is on exhibition at the University of Pennsylvania museum a sacred shrine of the Hidatsa Indians, which has been added to the Heye collection of American ethnological objects. It is believed to be the only shrine of its nature ever erected by the Indians. The shrine was set up in a large earthen-covered hut near the line between Montana and the Dakotas. It consists of four posts stuck into the ground, on which rest two shelves. On the lower shelf is a very ancient buffalo skull resting in a bed of leaves from the pennyroyal plant. On the upper shelf are two human skulls painted red.

It was the custom of the natives to make gifts to the shrine whenever they wanted the gods to answer a prayer.—Philadelphia Dispatch to the New York Sun.

Doctors Lose by Telephone.

"Do you know," said the doctor apologetically to the patient waiting in his office, "that this prescribing by phone is becoming a serious business for us doctors. Now, if I had no phone I would be called to the house and I would charge my regular fee for a visit. But if I attempted to charge for prescribing over the telephone I would be thought an extortionist. Yet there is no reason why I should not be paid for my advice over the telephone just as much as if I sat at the patient's bedside and prescribed. Take, for instance, a case which should be watched for three or four days. Instead I'm told, 'we'll call you, doctor, if there is any change.' And then proceed to call me over the telephone, give me the symptoms and ask what is to be done. Of course, there is no excuse for going to the patient's side after the telephone bulletin, unless there is a turn for the worse. So I'm cut right out of a fee for a visit. I believe that we physicians should get together and agree to charge a certain sum for prescribing over the telephone."

Artist and Parvenu.

Phil Morris, the eminent portrait painter, who died when his fame was at its height, had a very unpleasant experience whilst visiting a wealthy merchant who had commissioned him to paint his wife and baby for the sum of £700. The first evening Mr. Morris and his "employer" were discussing the "pose," and the artist, thinking that he had hit on a brilliant suggestion, said it would be effective if the child were lying on the hearthrug with just a vest on, and his mother leaning over, playing "This little pig went to market."

"How dare you, sir! Do you wish to insult me?" I've half a mind to countermand my order," roared the irate wealthy magnate. Poor Phil Morris couldn't think what harm he had done until a few days later he learned that his patron had made his money in "pork," and was known as the "bacon king."

Method of Spearfishing.

In spite of the march of civilization there remains much that is still primitive in Sicily, and a curious sight at Palermo is to see the fishermen spearfishing in the harbor by the aid of glass-bottomed buckets (says the Wide World Magazine). There are many corners of the world where fish are speared, but perhaps the use of the glass-bottomed bucket in this connection is to be seen only at Palermo. The fishermen lean far over the side of their boats, and hold the bucket on the water with one hand, poking their heads into it as if engaged in the Hal-tow-en game of ducking for apples. They hold a spear poised in the free hand, and thus await the arrival of their victims, who are sighted through the glass bottom of the bucket, which acts as a kind of telescope.

FAYETTE CITY MAKES GAME FROM ROSCOE

Fayette City defeated Roscoe Sunday afternoon at the Roscoe park in the Monongahela valley league by the score of 8 to 3. Fayette City managed to connect with the pill for 11 safe hits. Sutherland struck out 11 of the Fayette City lads, but he gave three men their base on balls and this coupled with Fayette City hitting and the fact that four errors were chalked up against the Roscoe club caused their defeat. The score Roscoe 0 0 0 0 0 0 3 0 Fayette City .. 4 0 0 0 2 0 2 0 Batteries—Roscoe, Sutherland and Goble. Fayette City, T. Parks and Courtley.

British Trolley Lines.

In 1912 the trolley lines of Great Britain carried more than 3,000,000,000 passengers. This traffic was carried on 2,642 miles of track and in less than 13,000 cars. Significant also is the fact that whereas in 1900 there were 27,000 horses employed in hauling street cars, in 1912 there were only 1,500.

Making Carnegie Irish.

Lancelot F. Madden, Irish historian, rises to remark that the story that Andrew Carnegie derived his surname from a Hungarian ancestor is absurd. "Carnegie or O'Carneagie," says he, "is identical with the names of O'Carney, O'Kearney and O'Carneagie, and is like them derived from the original Irish or Gaelic names of O'Carneaghe. The family is well known in Irish annals and is a branch of the O'Madden family."

Walking on Eggs.

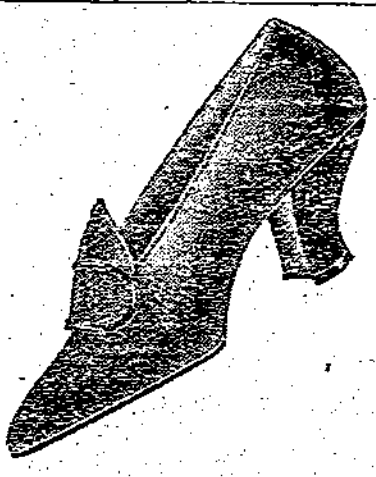

Persons who watch the market are accustomed to seeing all kinds of eggs in all kinds of places, but a traveler with a fairly wide experience with eggs thinks he has discovered a novel egg advertisement. FRESH EGGS ONLY.

Ease in walking guaranteed by breaking a raw egg into each shoe. Try it. You'll get comfort. Below the sign stood a basket of eggs which retailed for ten cents each to persons who cared to experiment with these unusual aids to pedestrians.
